LATINO AMERICANOS CELEBRAN EL DÍA DE ACCIÓN DE GRACIAS

LATINO AMERICANS CELEBRATE THANKSGIVING

Los latinos abrazan el Día de Acción de Gracias

En el Día de Acción de Gracias, muchos hogares hispanos se llenarán del aroma familiar del pavo asado, pero los preparativos navideños también incluirán otros platos tradicionales que reflejan mejor la herencia hispana. Muchos latinos pueden optar por seguir las tradiciones estadounidenses y también optar por incluir comidas hispanas como parte de la celebración.

En el espíritu del Día de Acción de Gracias, mezclar lo viejo con una nueva parte de la vida es una forma de mostrar cuán agradecidos y agradecidos están los latinos por sus vidas abundantes. El Día de Acción de Gracias a veces se conoce como “Día de Acción de Gracia” o “Día de Dar Gracias”, pero el nombre o las tradiciones de Acción de Gracias se mantienen fuertes. Parte de la experiencia única de los latinos en los Estados Unidos es crear una mezcla personalizada de señales y tradiciones culturales hispanas y estadounidenses. Por lo tanto, si bien es totalmente estadounidense en su esencia, el Día de Acción de Gracias en un hogar latino aún puede verse y sentirse innatamente latino, desde la comida y la decoración hasta un flujo constante de música, baile y risas latinas. Estas cosas no le quitan a la tradición, solo agregan más capas.

Junto con el relleno clásico, la salsa, el puré de papas y arándanos, los tostones o el mofongo (ambos hechos de plátanos fritos), se pueden encontrar tamales, guacamole, tortillas, frijoles y salsas especiales y platos de arroz (que varían según el país de origen) en la mesa del comedor. Las percepciones culturales comienzan en casa, y los latinos adaptarán el Día de Acción de Gracias para satisfacer la dualidad de su cultura en los EE. UU. y rendir homenaje a sus raíces hispanas. Las familias con niños en edad escolar también son más propensas a entender esta festividad única.

Si bien el Día de Acción de Gracias no se celebra en América Latina, y la verdadera historia de la festividad más allá de los alimentos podría eludir a aquellos que no crecieron con esta lección de historia, los latinos sienten una conexión especial con su significado de agradecimiento y aprecian compartir sus festividades. De hecho, el 76 por ciento de los latinos a menudo celebran los días festivos de los Estados Unidos, y el 86 por ciento de los latinos sienten que es natural vivir y actuar de maneras que son típicas de la cultura estadounidense, según una encuesta de Simmons de primavera de 2011.

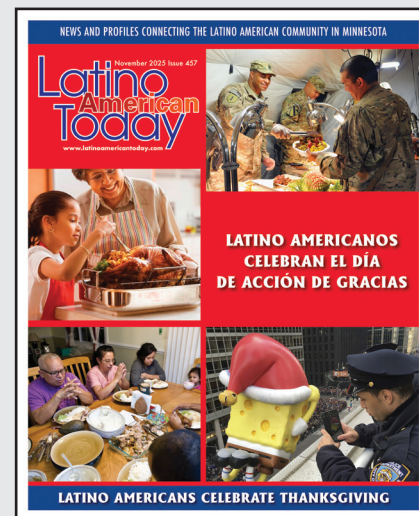

Quizás te preguntes, ¿importa si se sirve flan de calabaza en lugar de un pastel de calabaza? ¿Y si el relleno se adereza con adobo, chorizo y pimientos? La creatividad es una gran parte de cualquier comida familiar, y algunas compañías de alimentos atienden a un paladar latino que no está familiarizado con el pavo y otras guarniciones tradicionales del Día de Acción de Gracias.

Lo que importa es que el marketing se utiliza para invitar a los latinos a abrazar plenamente la tradición estadounidense y sus ofertas. En un estudio de comScore, el 35 por ciento de los hispanos recordaron los productos que vieron anunciados, en comparación con el 31 por ciento de los no hispanos. El 31 por ciento de los latinos también disfrutó viendo anuncios, en comparación con solo el 19 por ciento de los no hispanos.

Aunque el crecimiento se ha desacelerado en la industria de bienes de consumo en general, las empresas que proporcionan bienes de consumo envasados para los hispanos han visto una mayor progresión, y los latinos a menudo recurren a los medios de comunicación en español para familiarizarse con las tradiciones estadounidenses.

Las compañías de alimentos y bebidas pueden hacer su parte para ofrecer opciones y alternativas a los consumidores hispanos que combinen las dos culturas. Piense en pavo con relleno de pan de maíz con chorizo o líneas directas de pavo en español, por ejemplo.

Pero no es la comida en sí lo que hace las fiestas. Es la familia, y las tradiciones nuevas y antiguas las que hacen que el día sea tan especial. Al fin y al cabo, una ocasión que combina familia, comida y diversión está destinada a ser apreciada.

El Día de Acción de Gracias 2025: Un Enfoque desde la Biblia

Por Dr. Saúl Carranza

Salmos 107:1 (“Dad gracias al Señor, porque él es bueno; porque para siempre es su misericordia”)

El Día de Acción de Gracias es una fecha especial dedicada a expresar gratitud por las bendiciones recibidas durante el año. Aunque su origen está ligado a eventos históricos y culturales, la esencia de la gratitud se encuentra profundamente enraizada en la Biblia, sirviendo como punto de partida para reflexionar sobre cómo y por qué damos gracias. Los latinos hemos aprendido a agradecer profundamente por las bendiciones recibidas.

En Estados Unidos, desde tiempos muy antiguos, el Día de Acción de Gracias se celebra en noviembre, marcando una ocasión familiar donde se comparten alimentos y se agradece por las cosechas y logros del año. Más allá del aspecto cultural, este día nos invita a mirar hacia el interior y valorar lo que tenemos, reconociendo que la gratitud va más allá de una festividad: es una actitud permanente.

En la Biblia encontramos muchas exhortaciones a dar gracias, no solo por lo que tenemos, sino por lo que Dios representa en la vida de cada persona. Por ejemplo, el Salmo 100:4 dice: “Entrad por sus puertas con acción de gracias, por sus atrios con alabanza; alabadle, bendecid su nombre”. Este versículo remarca que el dar gracias es una forma de acercarse a Dios. En el Nuevo Testamento, el apóstol Pablo exhorta constantemente a vivir en gratitud: “Dad gracias en todo, porque esta es la voluntad de Dios para con vosotros en Cristo Jesús”. I Tes. 5:18, Aquí la Biblia invita a agradecer en toda circunstancia, reconociendo que la gratitud no depende de las condiciones externas, sino de una convicción interna.

Podemos agradecer al Creador a través de una oración de gratitud por la vida, la familia, los amigos y las oportunidades recibidas. Compartir una lectura bíblica como Salmos 107:1 (“Dad gracias al Señor, porque él es bueno; porque para siempre es su misericordia”). Servicio a los demás a través de actos de amor y servicio, siguiendo el ejemplo de Jesús, quien enseñó a compartir y ayudar a los necesitados. Lo importante es reconocer la fuente de bendición.

El Día de Acción de Gracias 2025 representa una oportunidad para fortalecer el valor de la gratitud en nuestras vidas, no solo como una tradición anual, sino como una práctica diaria fundamentada en la enseñanza bíblica. Al recordar lo que Dios ha hecho, y al expresarlo con palabras y acciones, cultivamos un corazón agradecido que transforma nuestra perspectiva y nuestras relaciones. Que este año la celebración sea una ocasión para reunirnos, reflexionar y agradecer a Dios, reconociendo que cada día es un regalo y una oportunidad para vivir con gratitud sincera. Feliz día de Acción de Gracias.

Thanksgiving Day 2025: A Biblical perspective

By Dr. Saul Carranza

Psalm 107:1 NLT “Give thanks to the Lord, for he is good! His faithful love endures forever.”

Thanksgiving is a special day dedicated to expressing our gratitude for the blessings received during the year. Although its origin is linked to historical and cultural events, the essence of gratitude is deeply rooted in the Bible, serving as a starting point for reflecting on how and why we give thanks. Latinos have learned to be deeply grateful for the blessings we receive.

In the United States, Thanksgiving has been celebrated in November since Civil War times, marking a family occasion where a meal is shared and thanks are given for the year’s harvests and achievements. Beyond the cultural aspect, this day invites us to look inward and appreciate what we have, recognizing that gratitude goes beyond a holiday: it is a permanent attitude.

The Bible exhorts us to give thanks, not only for what we have, but for what God represents in each person’s life. For example, Psalm 100:4 says, “Enter his gates with thanksgiving; go into his courts with praise. Give thanks to him and praise his name.” This verse emphasizes that giving thanks is a way to draw closer to God. In the New Testament, the apostle Paul constantly exhorts us to live in gratitude: “Give thanks in all circumstances, for this is God’s will for you in Christ Jesus.” I Thess. 5:18. Here the Bible invites us to give thanks in all circumstances, recognizing that gratitude does not depend on external conditions, but on an internal conviction.

We can thank the Creator through prayer of gratitude for our life, family, friends, and opportunities that we received. Share a Bible reading such as Psalm 107:1 (“Give thanks to the Lord, for he is good; his love endures forever”). Serve others through acts of love and service, following the example of Jesus, who taught us to share and help those in need. The important thing is to recognize the source of blessings.

Thanksgiving Day 2025 represents an opportunity to strengthen the value of gratitude in our lives, not only as an annual tradition, but as a daily practice grounded in biblical teaching. By remembering what God has done and expressing it in words and actions, we cultivate a grateful heart that transforms our perspective and our relationships. May this year’s celebration be an occasion to gather, reflect, and thank God, recognizing that each day is a gift and an opportunity to live with sincere gratitude. Happy Thanksgiving.

Be Thankful for What God Has Done – Happy Thanksgiving!

Marcia Malzahn

By Marcia Malzahn

On this special month of Thanksgiving, I am sharing a devotional from my first book, Devotions for Working Women: A Daily Inspiration to Live a Successful and Balanced Life.

Be Thankful for What God Has Done

Psalm 9:1 (NLT)

I will thank you, Lord, with all my heart; I will tell of all the marvelous things you have done.

God loves the heart of a thankful person. When we are thankful to Him for all the things He has done for us, He wants to bless us even more. When we are going through bad things or circumstances in our lives, we tend to forget all the blessings God has given us in the past. It is in those times we need to remember what God has done for us and truly thank Him for every gift and blessing He has given us.

When we bring these things to our remembrance, it helps us get through the current situation. Our faith also increases, and we are able to trust Him again through yet one more thing in our lives. Thanking God is vital to our success in every area of our lives.

At home, thank Him for your house, husband (if you are married), children (if you have any), your friends, and family. At work, thank Him for your job, your boss, your employees (if you are in management), your peers, and friends. Thank God for letting you be His child. Tell people of the marvelous things God has done for you.

Below are other Scriptures from the Bible to remind us to be thankful:

Psalm 28:7 (NLT) The Lord is my strength, my shield from every danger. I trust in him with all my heart. He helps me, and my heart is filled with joy. I burst out in songs of thanksgiving.

Deuteronomy 8:10 (NLT)

When you have eaten your fill, praise the Lord your God for the good land he has given you.

Psalm 13:6 (NLT)

I will sing to the Lord because he has been so good to me.

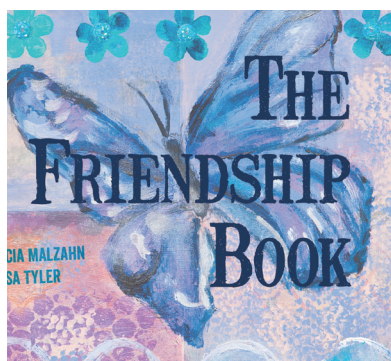

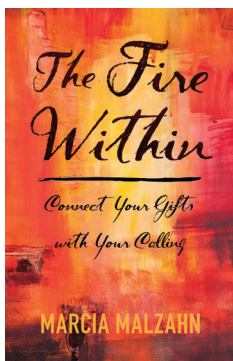

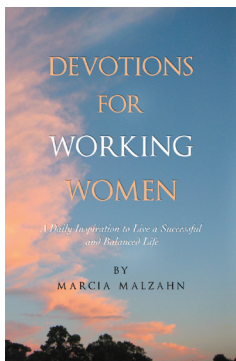

Psalm 103:2 (NLT)

Praise the Lord, I tell myself, and never forget the good things he does for me.

Romans 11:36 (NLT)

For everything comes from him; everything exists by his power and is intended for his glory. To him be glory evermore. Amen.

Happy Thanksgiving to you and your family!

Interview with: Ivan Lorenzo-Andrade, Realtor, CML Group at Keller Williams Integrity Realty

For Ivan Lorenzo-Andrade, real estate is more than a business – it’s a bridge to opportunity for Latino families and first-generation dreamers. Inspired by his own family’s struggles with housing instability, Ivan turned that challenge into purpose: helping others build generational wealth through homeownership. Bilingual, compassionate, and rooted in his community, he brings both strategy and soul to his work. Ivan’s mission is simple yet powerful – to remind every client that their dreams are valid, their effort matters, Ivan turned that challenge into purpose: helping others build generational wealth through homeownership. Bilingual, compassionate, and rooted in his community, he brings both strategy and soul to his work. Ivan’s mission is simple yet powerful – to remind every client that their dreams are valid, their effort matters, and there truly are no limits.

LAT: How did you get your start in the real estate industry, and what inspired you to pursue this career path at a young age?

It all started at a job fair in my high school in Minneapolis, where I met my first mentor. He encouraged me to focus on one career path, since I was a kid with big ambitions but didn’t know where to start. That conversation led me to choose real estate – and I’ve stuck with it ever since. My hope is that the foundation I’m building now inspires other young people and my community to dream big and aim high

LAT: Who were your biggest role models or mentors, and what did you learn from them?

Fantastic question! My biggest role models are my mentors because they’re where I aspire to be, and they constantly push me to become better. My first mentor, TK, taught me that actions speak louder than words – his success alone has inspired me to keep working hard. My mentor Isaac has been instrumental in shaping my real estate career, helping me grow in communication, mindset, and goal setting. I truly believe everyone should have a mentor to look up to – it can make all the difference.

LAT: How do you use your fluency in Spanish and cultural background to build trust and connect with Spanish-speaking clients?

I use my bilingual skills and cultural understanding to educate and create comfort for my clients – whether through my social media posts or the homebuyer seminars I host. Many of my clients first meet me at Hispanic community events or local stores, where I connect with them in a space that feels familiar and authentic.

LAT: What digital marketing tools and social media platforms do you find most effective for reaching your target clientele?

I focus on Instagram and Facebook because they’ve helped me connect best with my clients. They let me share valuable information, highlight success stories, and build real connections through educational posts and local Hispanic community events.

Fraud In Minnesota – Crisis In Our State

As your state representative, I believe every taxpayer deserves respect, honesty, and transparency from their government. Minnesotans deserve accountability, not excuses. That’s why I’m so concerned about the massive fraud in Minnesota and I’m committed to responsible budgeting, strong oversight, and policies that deliver real results for our communities.

From agriculture to education, I’ll work to ensure every dollar is used wisely and effectively-strengthening our schools, supporting our farmers, and building a better, more accountable Minnesota for everyone.

– Rep. Erica Schwartz (R) District 18A

Fraud effects and hurts everyone. All tax payers including hard working and overtaxed Latinos have been ripped off in two ways. Because of widespread fraud, programs dedicated to help our neighbors have been questioned and opportunities for assistance reduced by those who abused these housing, food, education and other programs.

We all should expect the most of our hard-earned tax dollars. As small business owners, entrepreneurs and dedicated workers, we all are asked to pay taxes and it’s frustrating that we can’t trust state administrators to ensure confidence in government and then insult us with asking to give even more of our paychecks in taxes and fees. Taxpayers and those who struggle must demand accountability and change who is running this state.

– Rep. Jon Koznick (R) District 57A

Red lights have been flashing and warning sirens sounding for years alerting to the massive fraud occurring in state government. The independent Office of the Legislative Auditor has expressed many concerns and offered recommendations to protect taxpayer dollars. Nevertheless, Gov. Walz has allowed massive fraud to continue year-after-year during his time as governor. Minnesotans are justifiably angry as the confirmed fraud we know of now exceeds $2,000,000,000.00. Every dollar Gov. Walz allowed to be lost to fraud is one less dollar that could have been kept in the pockets of Minnesotans to help pay for the skyrocketing costs of healthcare, childcare, housing, and more.

– Senator Eric Lucero (R) District 30

Aguilar Productions Named Vendor Partner of the Year

Minnesota Retailers is proud to announce Aguilar Productions as the recipient of the Vendor Partner of the Year award, part of the 2025-2026 Minnesota's Retail Champions program. This award celebrates an exceptional partner whose innovative services and dedication to the retail community have contributed significantly to the success of Minnesota retailers.

"Aguilar Productions embodies the spirit of a true partner," said Bruce Nustad, President of the Minnesota Retailers. "Through their expertise in multicultural marketing and their focus on the diverse communities, they have provided invaluable support to retailers looking to connect with new consumer segments. Their commitment to excellence and their collaborative approach make them an indispensable asset to the retail industry, and a perfect example of what it means to be a champion for Minnesota businesses."

Based in St. Paul, Aguilar Productions has a history of over 25 years, specializing in producing conferences, seminars and events that promote the U.S. multicultural markets, including Hispanic American, Asian American, African American and U.S. Emerging African communities. By connecting retailers with these vital consumer segments, Aguilar Productions helps businesses expand their reach and foster authentic relationships with a diverse customer base. Their work is a testament to the power of strategic, inclusive marketing in a dynamic retail landscape.

"We are incredibly honored to receive the Vendor Partner of the Year award," said Rick Aguilar, President/CEO of Aguilar Productions. "This award is a validation of our vision for a more inclusive and representative retail landscape in Minnesota. It reminds us that our work is far from over, and we are inspired to continue innovating and strengthening our mission to serve as a bridge to diverse markets."

"On behalf of the U.S. Bank East St. Paul office, we extend our heartfelt congratulations to Rick Aguilar and Aguilar Productions for receiving the Vendor Partner of the Year Award," said Jose Angel Martinez Pulido, Vice President/Branch Manager for U.S. Bank. "For over 25 years, Rick and his team have opened doors for emerging markets, helping corporate America embrace diversity, talent, and opportunity. Your vision and dedication have created lasting impact, and we celebrate this well-deserved recognition with you."

Free Park Friday is November 28 at Minnesota State Parks: Find a New Place to Hang Out

*By Deborah Locke, DNR Communications Specialist

Want to exchange that sluggish feeling for pep? Take a hike, free of charge, at a state park on Nov. 28. That's right, entry fees will be waived as a gift to you from Minnesota State Parks and Trails. Find yourself a park or state recreation area, walk short or walk long, visit one place or ten – just leave the house and fix your eyes on Minnesota's state park home grown beauty.

Saving the $7 vehicle permit fee is a nice benefit, especially if you're sampling a new park for the first time. For a list of your area parks, go to mndnr.gov/parkfinder. Keep in mind that there's more benefits to park visitation than a cost saving. Research shows that walking offers multiple health benefits, from increased creativity and better brain function to more flexibility and stamina. The Minnesota Department of Health reports that time in nature reduces stress hormones, lowers blood pressure and heart rates, reduces anxiety and builds confidence. It even reduces the effects of trauma. Thirty minutes outside three times a week may not heal a chronic disease, but the time spent in fresh air near trees, prairies or lakes will improve the quality of your life, no matter what your age.

The smallest among us benefit, also. The Nature Conservancy reports that time spent outdoors by toddlers and young children brings special benefits to developing bodies and minds. Playing with dirt reduces anxiety and stress levels, learning how to identify plants and wildlife encourages lifelong learning, and watching birds fly and water tumble from a waterfall inspires awe. Outdoor movement at a park play area enhances a child's motor skills and builds confidence.

In addition to those benefits, also consider this. Let a day of free admission be your introduction to frequent park visits all year long! There are many attractions every season, like snowshoeing, ice fishing, sledding or cross-country skiing in the winter, bird watching all year long, hiking, summer picnics and playtime for children at the play areas, fall walks through colorful scenery, and witnessing the glory of spring with its baby green foliage and fragrant wildflowers.

Keep in mind that many park naturalists throughout the year offer programs at no cost or a reduced cost. All you need to do is register in advance. A few November naturalist programs include the mysteries within a bog, owls, animal tracking, hibernation, buckthorn removal and outdoor survival. For a listing of programs, go to mndnr.gov/ptcalendar. However, keep in mind that on Nov. 28, most state park offices will be closed or minimally staffed so park employees can spend time with their families. Visitors may stop at the orientation stations near park entrances for trail maps and tips on what to see and do. Always check the park website for visitor alerts before you leave home.

If you are new to state parks, be sure to dress for the weather and wear comfortable walking shoes. Wear sun protection if the day is especially sunny.

For those who will be traveling or working on Nov. 28, DNR invites you to use the library pass program to check out a state park pass from a library near you to visit on another day at no cost. This is also a great option for those who enjoy their Free Park Day visit and want to return. Find a list of participating libraries at mndnr.gov/librarypass.

It's no coincidence that Free Park Friday is scheduled for the day after Thanksgiving. Hiking, biking, or taking a leisurely stroll is the perfect antidote to a day of overindulgence.
